Speak Into The PODlight PR Radio Show Hosts #PSOTU2017 StoryCircle Event On-Air

Voices Add #SOTU Story Solutions On-Air

Chicago, 05.02.2017, 22:56 Time

USPA NEWS - Hundreds to gather in Chicago to take part in People's State of the Union 2017: Beneficence.com PR & SpeakIntoThePODlight PR radio show believes... "To change the world, we have to change our story!"

Beneficence.com Public Relations (PR) together with SPEAKIntoThePODlight PR Radio Show partnered with USDAC.com/PSOTU to host their second annual event to add value and uniquely increase awareness of the United States Dept. Of Arts and Culture's "People's State Of The Union 2017 event" (#PSOTU) via story circles held from January 27th to February 5th, 2016 across the U.S.

"Listening to each other's story circle contributions individually, respectively and then reflecting collectively created an impact for creative life application considerations; and to model set our focus as concerned citizens for the future." ~ Tracey Bond

On January 28th, 2017 Tracey Bond, PhJrn, Chief Publicist at Beneficence.com & PR Radio Show Host Personality coordinated the facilitation of an on-air broadcast of voices who came to the #PSOTU2017 story circle's virtual table to share their stories on the state of the union. These individual story circle contributions were voiced under the USDAC's shared slogan: "To change the world, we have to change our story!" The People's State of the Union is an invitation to together host a national conversation in our own homes, schools, houses of worship, and community organizations. Between January 27-February 5, 2017, individuals and organizations across the U.S. will sign up to host Story Circles. The Poetic Address will be hosted by the Yerba Buena Center for the Arts in San Francisco on Saturday, March 11, 2017. After the Story Circles, participants who wish can upload their stories and images to an online platform, yielding a body of stories that can be searched and shared, inspiring new ideas and new actions. Between January 27-February 5, 2017, individuals and organizations across the U.S. will sign up to host story circles as part of The People's State of the Union. Most years, the President delivers a State of the Union Address highlighting the past year and priorities for the coming year. In inauguration years there is no official speech. When a new President is elected, a Transition Team of experts is assembled to advise on directions and strategies. But a handful of experts can't represent all of us. After this campaign cycle, We the People are likely to have even more light than usual to shed. Everyone who takes part in #PSOTU2017 is a member of the USDAC Transition Team, sharing experiences and wisdom with each other and the next President, who really needs to hear them. The People's State of the Union is an invitation to together host a national conversation in our own homes, schools, houses of worship, and community organizations.

Bond opened up the #PSOTU2017 Chicago on-air story circle event to participants who spoke for a few minutes each from their unique experiences, with suggestions for social change with people's values in mind. Story circle participants for this year's event represented the unique interests of a diverse mix of professionals.

The #PSOTU2017 Chicago story circle contributors included the following participants in the order they shared their voices: Tone' Jackson, Lic. Hair Professional of Maryland, Rae Luskin, Creative Activist of Illinois, Eden Adele Relationship Expert of Illinois, Ameca Cooley, Finance Expert of Illinois, Virginia Hodges, Celebrity, Fine Arts Photographer and Childrens Advocate of Washington D.C, Tracey Bond, Chief Publicist and US Press Agent of Illinois, Dr. Crystal Porter, Hair Scientist of Illinois. The participants individual story contributions were summarized-scribed to be submitted into the 2017 Story Portal at http://psotu17.tumblr.com/?link_id=4&can_id=5b2313ab9ff30a5e528fa8f82ace5e03&source=email-ready-for-your-story-circle&email_referrer=ready-for-your-story-circle___157209&email_subject=ready-for-your-story-circle by Bond.
